

There can be no social justice without economic prosperity, but economic prosperity without social justice is meaningless.

Economy prosperity started in 16th CE with the coming of capitalist economy in Europe.

But it created inequality in society. as it want infinite profit from finite resource. After that 19 CE Karl Marx said "Private property is root cause of every thing".

Therefore he talked about "Just" society.

Social Justice means equal distribution of monetary and non monetary Benefits. John Rawls said

"Justice as Fairness". He conducted a research in which he talked about
"Veils of Ignorance". in

^{this}
~~his~~ research he finds out
All people wanted to fulfill the basic needs of people.

On the Basis of his research
he given his theory in which he said social justice and economic prosperity
are complementary for each other.

He emphasized that if the state is economic prosperous
than it can easily run welfare scheme.

To make state prosperous he emphasizes on equality of liberty where everyone can pursue their occupation without state limitation. As, Adam Smith pointed about "invisible hands" of economy. where, economy restructure themselves on basis of supply and demand.

But, Thomas Picketty in his book "From British Raj to Billionaire Raj" said liberty leads to inequality as. rate of return on capital is much higher than rate of return on human capital.

it results in marginalisation of Bottom class people. therefore they feel excluded from the system.

To make 'just' society John Rawls also emphasized on equality. He said equality of opportunity is necessary for establishment of welfare state.

But for the ~~well~~ welfare scheme there is need of economic prosperity.

Therefore, he ~~think~~ said the extent of inequality is ^{correct} ~~right~~ till it ^{the} for welfare of people.

As, currently most of the states ~~Running as the~~
are striving to become developed.

Therefore, if they become prosper-ous than they have enough
funds for the welfare states.
