How does the spirit of the preamble confront the realities of Caste, poverty, patriarchy and majoritarianism in Contemporary India? [38M]

The preamble declares India as a sovereign, Socialist, Secular, Democratic and Republic where Justice, Equality, Liberty and Fraternity acts as a bulwark against social evils such as Caste, poverty, patriarchy and majoritarianism in Contemporary India.

During 15th - 16th Century in Europe, the Era of Darkness, marked a period of Feudal oppression and emergence of self.

However with the advent of Renaissance, thinkers like John Locke advocated for the basic freedom of Human and came up with the concept of Liberty and Natural rights.

The idea of the negative liberty lacked the concept of a socialist thought and hence with the rise of Industrial Capitalism, positive liberty emerged giving rise to the modern welfare state.

With time, another divide, that is Capitalist and worker class emerged where exploitation was done for profit.

Karl Marx envisioned a classless society where wealth is distributed equitably. He gave the concept of Equality to eliminate exploitation and ensure Economic and Social Justice.

The Indian preamble incorporates values like 'Social Justice' to eradicate Caste-based discrimination.

'Equality of status' and opportunity ensures access to Jobs, education, or dignity regardless of caste. The principle of affirmative reservation is ensured to uplift disadvantaged communities. 'Fraternity' promotes a sense of brotherhood beyond caste boundaries.

Millions in India lacked access to basic needs like food, housing, education, healthcare. But the 'Economic Justice' mentioned in preamble ensures fair distribution of resources to address the problem of poverty in India. 'Equality of opportunity' education or Job opportunity. The term 'Socialist' in the preamble implies to reduce inequality and schemes like MNREGA, Food security Act, serves as inclusive growth.

Patriarchy in India manifests as gender inequality. Social Justice demands gender equality and Political Justice ensures equal participation of women in any Organisation. Equality of status recognises women as equal citizens, not subordinate to men.

These two values in the preamble drive movements for women's reservation in parliament.

Majoritarianism often leads to unequal access for minority communities. Socialist ideal in the preamble emphasizes equitable distribution of resources and State responsibility towards all, including marginalized.

The religion of the majority often gains state backing but secularism in the preamble ensures neutrality of the state.

Justice - social, economic, political, ensures fair treatment and equal participation across caste, ~~gender~~ irrespective of caste, gender, religion or minority.

Equality of status and opportunity confronts majoritarianism. Fraternity ensures a sense of brotherhood, promotes mutual respect and unity and integrity of the nation.

The preamble is not just a symbolic introduction, rather

It's a living moral compass that promises Justice, Equality, Liberty, Fraternity and a Socialist, Secular, Democratic Republic to confront Cast discrimination, poverty, patriarchy and majoritarianism in India.
