

The fundamental duties were incorporated in the Constitution to balance citizens' rights with responsibilities. "critically analyse the evolution, significance, and legal enforceability of fundamental duties in India."

- The Indian Constitution incorporated fundamental duties to impose moral and civic responsibilities to citizens towards their Nation.
- It was introduced through 42nd Constitutional Amendment 1976.
Initially only 10 FD's were introduced, later in 2002 11th FDs were added.
- Their evolution has been gradually shaped by Constitutional Amendments, Judicial Interpretations and Socio-political developments.

Earth has enough for need for greed.

Evolution.

+ Swaran Singh committee recommended it.

placed under Article 51A, Part IV-A.

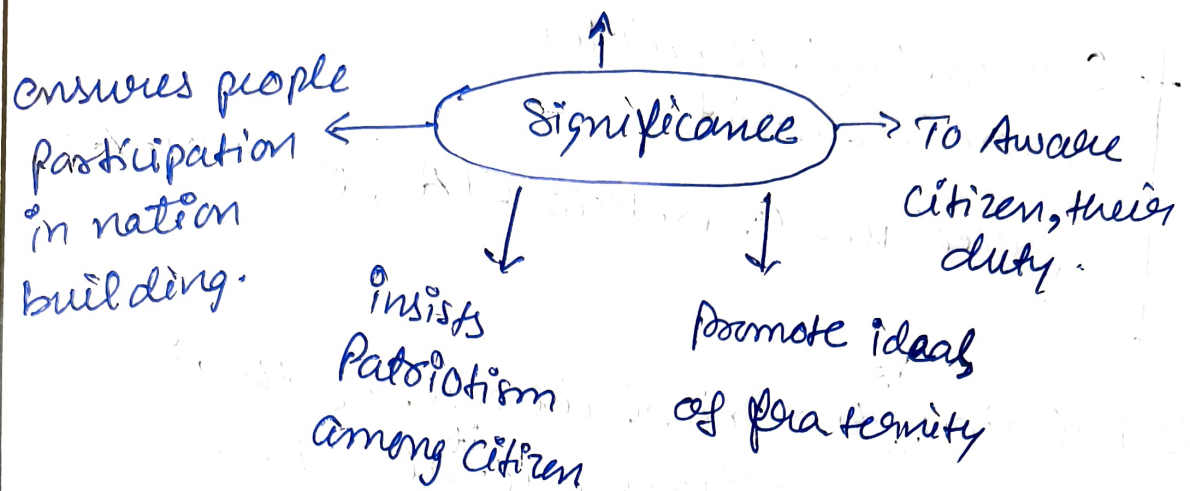

- its inclusion ^{is} to remind citizens of their duties toward nation but ^{it} also faced several criticism.

recommended by Swaran Singh committee for penalty for ~~not~~ violation.

About positioning of the FD's in IV A not part III after FR's.

Ideas used like DPSP's
in act of parliaments

Its significance can be seen in various Acts like:

- 1) prevention of insult to National honour Act - 1971
- 2) wildlife protection Act 1972
- 3) prevention of cruelty of to Animal Act
- 4) prevention to damage to property Act 1984.

Although we have seen above these law holds the essence of FD's in it. ~~although~~ they are not directly enforceable but through these acts it holds the citizens responsible if violated.

In times to come government needs to instill civic sense and morality in its citizens through awareness. while also trying to make the most important provisions legally enforceable.
